

Renuka Dhara, the college magazine of Government College Sangrah for the academic session 2024–25, has been published in e-PDF format, marking a significant step towards environmental responsibility. This thoughtful initiative reflects the college's commitment to saving paper and protecting trees. By adopting a digital platform, the institution promotes eco-friendly practices and supports sustainable development. The e-magazine ensures wider accessibility for students and readers anytime and anywhere. It also encourages the use of technology in academic and creative expression. This green initiative reduces printing costs and minimizes environmental impact. The digital format preserves literary and creative works in a lasting manner. Renuka Dhara continues to inspire awareness about environmental conservation. Such efforts set a positive example for other institutions. The college deserves appreciation for this progressive and responsible approach.
